Biography

The studies of literature and language have always been an essential part of my life. I have studied and practiced text analysis, interpretation and translation at different universities in Turkey, Germany and Great Britain. My current research is focused on affect and space studies in postcolonial and migrational context. I am highly interested in the recent socio-cultural and socio-political affect and space theories, Black and Asian theatre in Britain and gender studies. Creative, active and positive with significant analytical and strong interpersonal skills, able to organize and prioritize workload, use initiative and handle constant change; I am an ambitious PhD student and Associated Researcher in New Anglophone Literatures and Cultures at Goethe University Frankfurt am Main and a lecturer and student advisor at AYBU International Relations Office.

I am currently a PhD student at Goethe University Frankfurt am Main, I obtained my MA degree at FU Berlin and BA degree at Boğaziçi University.

I spent a year as an Erasmus+ SMS student at TU Dortmund, Germany and three months as a student assistant with the Erasmus+ SMP at University of Kent, UK during my BA studies.
